Review of the Molineux Trial Up to England Allowed to Buy War Material in This Country.

EPIDEMIC OF CRIME PREVAILING

SOME POLITICAL VIEWS

NEW YORK, December 19, 1809. The Molineux trial is a long way from its nding. Six weeks was the maximum duration, and one-third of that time has elapsed with only a small number of the 104 wit nesses examined. Kinsley, the handwriting expert, will probably occupy the stand for two days more, but after that it is not cer-tain what witness will be taken up. Reviewing the trial to date shows that the defense has gone far toward casting doubt upon the reliability of expert testimony. The trial so far seems to be a trial of the handwriting experts and their pro fession as much as it is the trial of Roland E. Molineux. It is beyond the power of ordinary prophesy to foretell what phase or department of his proofs Osborne will take up next. He has thrown to the winds the accepted order, and a goodly portion of the defense's time without doubt is taken up in endeavoring to foresee into which quarter the prosecution will jump. It seems thus far to have been his purpose to punctuate the tedious succession of old facts long ago gone over with strokes of a sensational nature, such as the testimony of Heiles and again of Mary Melando. these will be it is difficult to conceive, but duction must be made very clear, for the protests of the defendant's counsel against irregularity in the order of proof have been strenuous, and Recorder Goff will hardly take kindly to the introduction of further surprises. Having secured already the admission of the Barnet evidence and the introduction of the name of Mrs. Roland Molineux having come unexpectedly, coupled with that of Barnet, it is not unlikely that the prosecutor will proceed as soon as possible to the circumstances preceding and attending the death of Barnet as a preliminary to the actual attempt to poison Corattending the death of Barnet as a nary to the actual attempt to pols nish. The unfortunate exploiting name of the woman-to which the unilends an unattractive color-will clear the way further for the bringing forward of this part of the case.

An Epidemic of Murder.

Murder seems to have been epidemic in Greater New York for a year past, while the returns from other parts of the country exhibit the prevalence of similar sinister conditions. It is difficult to assign a cause conditions. It is difficult to assign a cause for this increase of the homicidal tendency in the mass of the population. Physicians are inclined to ascribe it to the high pressure of end of the century civilization, which drains the vitality and saps the nerve force of the strongest men. Practical observers, on the other hand, declare that the increase of all forms of homicide is due to the inefficiency of the police in tracking murderers to earth. Weight is given to this view by the fact that in the last two years murder by poisoning—the most difficult to trace of all crimes—has increased to an unprecedented extent. Experts have estimated that within a little more than twelve years upward of 400 men and women have met death by violence at the hands of others in New York city. Of this number of murders more than sixty still remain mysteries. The police have failed to unravel them. For the first time in the history of Sing Sing prison the death house was filled in April of the current year. Eight prisoners were confined there awaiting death for the crime of murder, and the construction of two more cells in the death house was ordered. The warden of the prison said at that time that they were convicting men of murder so fast in this city that he didn't know what to do with them. "The overcrowding of the death house," said he, "seems to indicate that the crime of murder is committed more frequently in New York today than it was some years ago." for this increase of the homicidal tendency

England May Buy War Material. According to Charles D. Pierce, consul general of the Orange Free State, the De-partment of State in Washington will not do anything to interfere with the sale munitions of war in this country to the British government, to be used in fighting the Transvaal and the Orange Free State, nor with their transportation to England or anywhere else that the British government wishes-to have them sent. Mr. Pierce is said to have made a protest to Secretary Hay, due to a letter received from Dr. Hendrick Muller, envoy extraordinary of the Orange Free State at The Hague, Holland, calling his attention to the shipment by a cartridge company of Bridgeport, Conn., of 5,000,000 cartridges to South Africa. He also said that this company had received other large orders from the British government, and directed him to protest to the United States government against the sale of the munitions of war to be used against the Orange Free State, with which this country is at peace. Mr. Pierce, it is said, on Saturday received a reply from Mr. Hay citing authorities to show that in case of war belligerents have the right to ment wishes-to have them sent. Mr. Pierce Mr. Hay citing authorities to show that in case of war belligerents have the right to purchase any kind of goods in a neutral country, subject to confiscation after shipment. When asked whether he had to say anything in regard to this reply, Mr. Pierce said: "Nothing at all." He could not himself tell how American volunteers could get into the Boer army, but if they went from here to a certain port in Europe, he added, there were funds on hand there to transport suitable men who wished to join.

Preparing for Census. The actual work of enumeration for the twelfth census is less than six months away. Charles S. Wilbur, census supervisor for Manhattan and The Bronx, is busily engaged in dividing the territory under his care into enumeration districts. Each his care into enumeration districts. Each of these districts, it is intended, shall contain a maximum of 2,500 persons, and it is expected that there will be about 1,200 of them, with an average population of 2,000. Although Mr. Wilbur does not yet venture an estimate of the number of persons that the next census will show as living in Manhattan and The Bronx, this would indicate that a population somewhat exceeding two millions will be found in the two buroughs. The allotment of these enumeration districts is based upon estimates drawn mainly from the directory counts, and the election registry lists, where new parks have been opened, the sections made larger than such estimates would warrant, and, conversely, where new institutions with a large number of inmates are situated the sections are narrowed. In the congested lower east side, and in some portions of the west side, where there has been rapid growing of the foreign population in the past few years, the enumeration districts are much smaller in extent than those of the census of 1890. In some portions of the east side a district will include less than a of these districts, it is intended, shall conare much smaller in extent than those of the census of 1890. In some portions of the east side a district will include less than a single block. The time allotted for the actual work of enumeration is two weeks. For the compilation of their reports the enumerators will be allowed two more weeks. The enumerators will be allowed two more weeks. The enumerators will be appointed by the local supervisor, with the approval of the director general. The department insists upon great care in their selection. If possible, the enumerators are to be residents of the district to which they are assigned.

Senator J. P. Jones Talks Politics. "It is impossible to prevent the noming tion of William J. Bryan for the presidency by the national democratic convention next year," said United States Senator J. P. Jones of Nevada at the Hoffman House Saturday.

"The attempt may be made," he continued, "to spring other candidates, but it will amount to nothing. Do I think Bryan has a chance of election? Certainly I do. As matters in the financial markets are today his chances are excellent. There is a great dearth of money, and it is being keenly felt in many quarters. If these conditions continue Bryan stock will steadily advance. That is certain. It's all well enough for the people to say that President McKinley will have a walk-over, but there are a whole lot of people in this country who have got in the habit of doing their own thinking, and they are voters. While business is generally very good, "The attempt may be made," he con-there is not sufficient money to carry it. We must have more money or less business, or there will be trouble. Bryan is a more formidable candidate than many are inclined to consider him, and I think that time will confirm my opinion."

but the committee is not talking about the promises. Its members are figuring entirely upon cash in hand. Henry W. Hendricks, chairman of the metal trade-committee, one of the subcommittees of the Dewey arch committee, turned $5,000 eyer to C. H. Nicoli, the secretary. Mr. Hendricks had collected this sum from men in the metal trade, and he told Mr. Nicoli that he expected to turn in $5,000 more after the holidays. The total subscription represents 400 subscribers, an average of $437.50 a person. Only $1,000 has been received from out of town. None of the leaders in financial circles have contributed anything toward the fund. They have not declined to subscribe; on the contrary, all have promised to do so, but so far they have neglected the matter. After the holidays the members of the committee will undertake to interest these men. The committee is determined to keep up the average of $25,000 per week until the entire amount needed is raised. "The Holland is like a log in the water," he remarked with evident satisfaction, "and no matter how rough it may be the sea simply breaks over her. We will be here all winter, I believe. I have no doubt of the eminent satisfaction the Holland will give in all of her tests, no matter how exacting the demands may be upon her, because she has proved time and again that she can meet all the requirements for which she was designed."

Capt. Harry Brogden, the clerk to Admiral McCormick, commandant of the yard, was present, and exerted himself to give Capt. Cable every facility to make him and his crew comfortable during their stay.

John P. Holland, the inventor of the boat, and Elihu B. Frost, the secretary of the company, are at the Arlington, and are making arrangements for the test, and the several others which are expected to follow the initial trial here. They were in consultation yesterday with the naval board and described the plans of the new boats of the Holland type, which it is proposed that the government shall purchase. the agricultural and industrial interests of northern Virginia. The movement was started about a month ago, when a meeting was held and a temporary organization effected.

Mr. M. B. Harlow called the meeting to order yesterday. Mr. John Yarrow of Fair-fax was chosen chairman, and Mr. Robert Elliot of this city elected secretary. Reports were received from the various committees appointed at the former meeting.

The committee on legislation presented a plan for the charter, which was approved. It will be forwarded to the state legislature for action. The charter provides for the operation of the proposed fair on the same plan as that followed by most of the agricultural societies throughout the state. agricultural societies throughout the state A sum between $2,000 and $50,000 is to represent the capital stock. It is also provided that fairs or animal exhibitions shall be held in or near the city of Alexandria, and the association is given the right to lease or purchase land not to exceed 209 acres for the purpose above named. Racing Privileges. The question of racing was brought up and discussed. Under the Maupin law, as is well known, the racing of horses is prois well known, the racing of norses is pro-hibited within the state. It seemed to be the prevalent opinion, however, that this feature would add much to the interest and success of the proposed events, and it was decided to endeavor to have the Maupin law amended so as to allow rac-ing at the association grounds for a period not more than fifteen days each year. The following officers were chosen: James W. Roberts of Fairfax county, president; W. Roberts of Fairfax county, president; John Yarrow of Fairfax, vice president; S. R. Donohoe of Fairfax Court House, secretary; G. W. Hawxhurst of Falls Church, assistant secretary, and Edward Hunt of fairfax county, treasurer. The case of William H. Lee, charged with keeping a disreputable house, was set for trial Thursday of next week. This is the case growing out of the raid made by Sergeant McNeely.

CAPT. BEACH PLEASED.

Assignment of Capt. Newcomer as Assistant Commissioner. Speaking of the assignment of Capt

Henry C. Newcomer as an assistant to him Capt. Beach, the Engineer Commissioner of the District, stated that he is delighted to learn of it. The assignment was not re-quested by Capt. Beach, who has never by the way, asked for an assistant, al-though he said Capt. Newcomer will be of great assistance to him. The coming of Capt. Newcomer will give the Engineer Commissioner two assistants, Capt. D. B Gaillard being the other. Capt. Beach very highly of Capt. Newcomer whose instructor he was for a time a West Point.

It is expected that when Capt. Newcomer reports for duty at the District building the various offices of the engineer department will be assigned to their immediate supervision, thus enabling Capt. Beach to give more time to his immediate duties.
